12. The Circulatory System Text

© The McGraw-Hill
Companies, 2009

FIGURE 12.11 Basic vertebrate circulatory pattern illustrated in a shark. The heart pumps blood to the ventral aorta, from which it is distributed to the paired aortic arches and then to the single dorsal aorta. From the dorsal aorta, blood flows forward to the head and posteriorly to the body, where major branches carry it to visceral and somatic tissues.
